BUENOS AIRES YOUTH OLYMPIC GAMES

6 – 18 OCTOBER 2018

1. PRINCIPLES

Preamble

The Youth Olympic Games (YOG) were created to reach out to young athletes worldwide. Over 3'500 athletes are foreseen to participate in Buenos Aires 2018 and the criteria for participation as specified in the qualification systems are based on two principles: performance (direct qualification) and universality (Universality Places - UPs).

1.1 Performance and qualification events

The principle of performance will be ensured through the Qualification Systems developed by each IF, which will allow for the participation of the best athletes through a fair and transparent process. Existing events and/or rankings already approved by the respective IF should be used for qualification:

- 1.1.1. Individual sports: A reasonable percentage of the quota shall be distributed on the basis of performance within continents and shall reflect the specificities of each sport at junior level in terms of quota distribution between continents.
- 1.1.2. Team sports: Participation shall be limited to one women's and one men's team per NOC across the following team sports: Football, Handball, Hockey, and Rugby. The reallocation process for these sports should be defined accordingly, in the event that an NOC qualifies more than two teams across these sports. All NOCs will be asked to indicate which of the two sports they would prefer to enter, should they manage to qualify more than two teams.

1.2. Universality

The participation of all 206 NOCs is the key factor in ensuring the universality of the YOG. The principle of universality shall be reflected in qualification systems through continental representation as well as Universality Places.

In this respect, a limited number of quota places have been reserved in each individual sport (Beach Volleyball and Basketball are counted as individual sports) so that each NOC will be given the possibility to participate in the YOG.

- 1.2.1. Individual sports: In each sport a specific number of Universality Places for NOCs will be reserved so that a minimum of one (1) woman and one (1) man per NOC will be given the possibility to participate in the YOG. The number of Universality Places to be allocated to eligible NOCs remains at the full discretion of the Youth Olympic Games Tripartite Commission and will vary between two (2) and four (4) per NOC depending on the availability of places and the level of the athletes proposed following the entry by name. Universality Places will not be allocated to NOCs which have qualified more than four athletes at the Youth Olympic Games Nanjing 2014.
- 1.2.2. Team sports: The following team sports - Football, Handball, Hockey and Rugby - will consist of tournaments for men and women which will feature at least one national team from each of the five continents. Should it be considered that there is no sporting relevance in a Continent, possibility will be offered to propose a second team from another Continent. This proposal will be submitted to IOC for approval.

1.3. NOC Delegation

1.3.1. Minimum NOC delegation size: At least two (2) athletes per NOC - one (1) man and one (1) woman - are guaranteed to participate in the YOG.

1.3.2. Maximum NOC delegation size: A maximum number of athletes per NOC will be set within each sport, discipline or event to maximise universality and avoid overly significant delegation sizes. In addition, and irrespective of the number of athletes qualified, an NOC delegation may comprise a maximum of seventy five (75) athletes in individual sports.

Given that the SASCOC may only take a maximum of 75 Individual athletes but have the possibility of qualifying in excess of 75 athletes to participate at the Buenos Aires 2018 YOG, no athlete, irrespective of the international federation qualification, is guaranteed selection even if qualified. The qualification period for most sport ends on 31 July 2018 and selection will only be finalised once this process is completed.
